

SIGNS FOR SAN DIEGO

October newsletter

Towne Jewelers Halo Channel Letters

Towne Jewelers of San Marcos, established in 1977, extends its jewelry offerings across the United States and needed new Halo Channel Letters. What distinguishes Towne Jewelers is their unwavering commitment to delivering a personalized customer experience. This is a Halo Channel Letter Set and is the nicest sign in the area. We do a lot of Halo channel letter set!

Read More

Sandblasted Signs

aesthetic to signage. At our company, we offer traditional sandblasted signs as well as more cost-effective alternatives that serve the same purpose. Below, you can find two examples of great signs that are budget-friendly.

Read More

Sign Installation needing a crane?

Before COVID, OSHA enforcement was ramping up. Then Wham, COVID and enforcement seems to drop to zero and stays there for 2 years. On June 9, 2022, OSHA released a new compliance directive CPL 02-01-063 for cranes about operator training, certification, and evaluation. OSHA is actively looking for crane operators that are not licensed or certified. Sign companies using cranes are not normally certified, but that puts them in violation of the new requirements.

Read More

Lets Connect

Subscribe

Past Issues

Translate ▼

Copyright (C) 2023 Signs for San Diego. All rights reserved.

Our mailing address is:

Want to change how you receive these emails?
You can update your preferences or unsubscribe

